

Where fine players and community members grow farm fresh produce

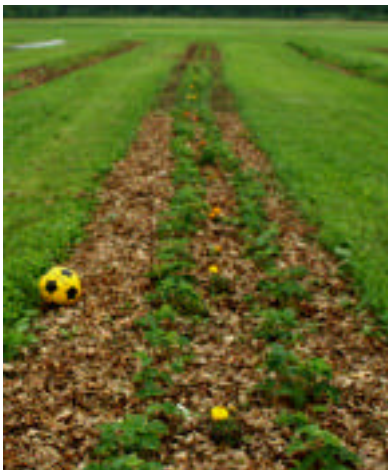

The Souhegan Soccer Farm is a peaceful getaway in nearby Amherst, NH. We offer farm fresh produce grown organically without the use of commercial fertilizer and pesticides. You and your family are invited to join in the weekly harvest throughout the season. Each year we have a bountiful supply of salad greens, herbs, onions, garlic, corn, potatoes, tomatoes, peas, beans, strawberries, eggplant, squash, carrots, peppers, pumpkins, and flowers. Community participants are welcome every week to join us in weeding, planting, picking or distributing produce on pick-up days. Regular staff includes part-time farmers and college and high school farm interns.

Located in the fertile flood plain of the Souhegan River, the Soccer Farm is designed for a mixed use of farming, soccer, and family recreation. The farming schedule begins with bed cultivation, planting, and weeding in April, May, and June; and planting, weeding, and harvesting from June to October. Family recreation opportunities include hiking, bird watching, dog walking, playing sports and picnicking.

The Souhegan Soccer Farm is a CSA or Community Supported Agriculture project started about five years ago by soccer player and coach Ben Brewster. Ben saw CSA as a way to bring better overall nutrition to his players and the community. The farm helps promote a healthier lifestyle through the integration of farming, soccer, and other outdoor recreation.

A CSA program is an exciting way of bringing community contact with the land back to the business of buying food. Being part of a CSA program is one way to make a direct and reliable commitment to local agriculture and the well being of your family.

A Souhegan Soccer Farm membership allows you and your family to become directly and meaningfully involved with the food you eat and the land on which it is grown.

The cost for a seasonal family membership is $595 plus 3 hours a month (or $495 plus 3 hours every two weeks) working at the farm, participating in farm activities. The cost for a non-working membership is $675; with recreational land use for walking, bird watching, exercising dogs, and picnicking included. A deposit of $200 is requested by May 5th to facilitate our seed purchase and our full season planning. Shared memberships are available for those who need less food each week.

The Souhegan Soccer Farm invites all of the southern New Hampshire community to join us this year in promoting your health and well being through farming, soccer, and family recreation. We look forward to a great year. Come join us!
